Done properly, appraisals and performance reviews benefit the individual, the manager and the organisation. Quality conversations, learning from the past, understanding individuals in the team, effective planning for the future and willingness to tackle issues head on will mean that the appraisal process adds value to the business.

With many years experience in appraisals, Business Partners, Employment Consultant, Debbie will make you realise just how much more you could get from an appraisal process.

This interactive, fun and informative session will address the main issues faced by managers embarking on appraisals. Implementing the tools given on this session will allow you to realign individual performance, keep your high flyers, flying and help put the business firmly in focus.
